Our adult lives separated us after I moved away from Lake County; but before that when you and I were just kids, you were my first friend, my best friend. From the time I moved across the street at 4 years old through high school, you were there for every life experience learning to navigate through this life. We argued and fought like kids do, but in the end we were still friends. You played an important role in my childhood, and I can never thank you enough for the good times and laughs we shared. I was only able to see you a handful of times as an adult, and each time it was good being able to catch up with each other. Though we were not close as adults, one thing that will never change is you will always be my childhood best friend. Thanks for the memories Murph, you are missed down here. See you when I get there bro!
