“ My sweet sweet Ms. Betty,
Though I feel like it wasn't your time to go yet
I cherish and appreciate all the evenings spent with you watching “Murder & Mayhem” as we called it.
Watching law and order or channel ID and talking crap about everyone/everything on tv.
You telling me about your “wild bar days” ...the struggles of having big boobs and me constantly getting onto you for your LACK of a filter.
You ALWAYS spoke your mind...sometimes a little too much lol and you cracked me up.
You were so giving and generous, constantly looking in your closet asking “you think you can fit this??”
And when I'd politely decline...(seeing as how usually it was something way to big) you'd follow with “Well see if your mom wants it”
Whenever I wanted to break my diet I could always count on you to eat chocolate and chips with me every time.
Though we we're hired to simply be your caregiver,
You became a very close friend to me. And I'll forever remember and miss you.
Have fun up there with your hubby, guy, & your dog.

“ My sweet little Aunt B....How I will miss the time we shared together. All your amazing stories of your childhood of growing up in a coal mine town , all your exciting stories of early adulthood . I will miss our TV relax time corn dog eating and buffalo chicken pizza . You are an inspiration to all woman to remain independent and to trust God in all areas of life.
Thank you Lord for bringing Aunt B into my life , she taught me many life long lessons.
