“ I know Brenda because her son married my daughter. She really had a rough few years with her illness but remained positive and always had a smile when I saw her, especially around out grandchildren that we both love and adore. I promise you Brenda, those children will never forget you and I will make sure they are safe and happy. Rest in peace my friend.

“ I first met Brenda when she came to to pick Kim up from work. It was later when I discovered she was one of the strongest woman I've ever had the pleasure of meeting as she never let her illness get her down. At least not around me. She was so kind and funny. I remember the first time Brenda met my husband Carl. She said " Now i know why Tracy always refered to you as her little daddy. " She then turned to me and said "you're both short. Where did Tracy get her height from? " Brenda's faith kept her strong along with her love for her children and grandchildren. She will be missed by many. My prayers for the family. Remember the good times and share the memories . R. I. P Brenda until we meet again. Sue and Carl Palmer

“ Brenda was my sister. She'd been sick for a long time and wheelchair bound. I know she's walking, running and even dancing on streets of gold. She is celebrating her arrival in Heaven with our mom, dad(s), grandparents and so many others who've gone on ahead of us.

Sister, I love you and you will be missed.

Kimberly and Tim, you're in my thoughts and prayers.
